Guest Lecture Report on Redemption of Debentures

On June 25th 2024, a guest lecture on the topic "Redemption of Debentures" was held at Master Hirannaiah Auditorium, 3rd Floor. The session was conducted by Prof. Geetha R, who is a renowned expert in the field of finance and accounting. The event was organized by Department of commerce, aimed at providing students with in-depth knowledge and practical insights into the process and significance of debenture redemption.

The lecture began with a brief overview of debentures, explaining them as long-term financial instruments issued by companies to borrow funds. The speaker highlighted different types of debentures, such as: Convertible and Non-Convertible Debentures, Secured and Unsecured Debentures, Redeemable and Irredeemable Debentures, Importance of Debenture Redemption

The significance of debenture redemption in a company's financial strategy was discussed. The speaker emphasized that timely redemption of debentures helps in: Maintaining the company's creditworthiness, managing debt levels effectively, Ensuring investor confidence

Various methods of debenture redemption were detailed, including: Lump-Sum Payment: Redemption of debentures at the end of the maturity period. Instalment Payment: Redemption through periodic payments over the term of the debentures. Purchase in Open Market:

Company buys back debentures from the open market before maturity. Sinking Fund Method: A fund set aside periodically to ensure redemption of debentures.

The speaker provided a comprehensive guide on the accounting treatment of debenture redemption. Key points included: Journal Entries: Recording the redemption of debentures, payment of interest, and any gain or loss on redemption. Amortization of Discount or Premium on Issue of Debentures: Systematic write-off of discount or premium over the term of the debentures. Provision for Debenture Redemption Reserve (DRR): Legal requirement to create a reserve for ensuring debenture redemption.

The lecture also covered the legal and regulatory framework governing the redemption of debentures. The speaker explained relevant provisions under the Companies Act and guidelines issued by regulatory bodies like SEBI.

The lecture concluded with an interactive Q&A session, where students had the opportunity to clarify their doubts and discuss real-life scenarios related to debenture redemption. The speaker shared valuable insights from their professional experience, enhancing the practical understanding of the topic.

The guest lecture on "Redemption of Debentures" was highly informative and beneficial for the students. It provided a clear understanding of the mechanisms, accounting practices, and legal aspects involved in debenture redemption. The knowledge gained from this session will undoubtedly assist students in their academic pursuits and future careers in finance.

We extend our heartfelt gratitude to Prof. Geetha R for delivering such an enlightening lecture. Special thanks to Dept of commerce for organizing this event and to all the participants for their active involvement.

Dear Principal Colleague,

Subject: Inter Collegiate Cultural Fest – “Cresindo” -2k24 Confluence of Creative Minds

Warm Greetings from Sindhi College!

It gives us immense pleasure to bring to your kind notice that our college is organising “Cresindo-2k24”, one of the biggest inter-collegiate cultural and management fest on 04th and 05th of JANUARY, 2024.

Cresindo provides a platform for unleashing the hidden talents in students. The fest attracts 200 colleges with 4000 participants across Bengaluru city. The mega fest blends a wide variety of cultural events, such as fashion shows, group dance, best manager, etc. Student leaders work to promote creativity and it symbolizes a place to be together and celebrate.

I kindly request you to send students to participate in all the events. Your encouragement, support and cooperation will go a long way in making the event a grand success.

In anticipation of positive response,

With best regards,

Prof. Asha N

Report on Student-Centric Method

Participatory Learning - Presentation

Objectives:

- To build students' confidence in public speaking and presentation skills.
- To develop their ability to articulate findings effectively.
- To justify conclusions with clarity and logic.
- To respond confidently to questions from an audience.

Overview:

The II Semester BBA general students at Dr. NSAM First Grade College delivered presentations on various grammar topics and short stories prescribed in their syllabus. The event served as an opportunity for students to demonstrate their understanding of the topics, develop presentation skills, and engage in critical analysis and discussion.

Details of the Presentations:

The students explored key concepts in grammar, such as sentence structure, tenses, and parts of speech, along with detailed interpretations of prescribed short stories. They highlighted the significance of grammar in effective communication and provided insightful analyses of the themes, characterizations, and moral lessons in the short stories.

The presentations were well-structured and supported by visual aids such as PowerPoint slides. Students effectively articulated their interpretations, justified their conclusions with textual evidence, and answered audience questions with confidence and clarity.

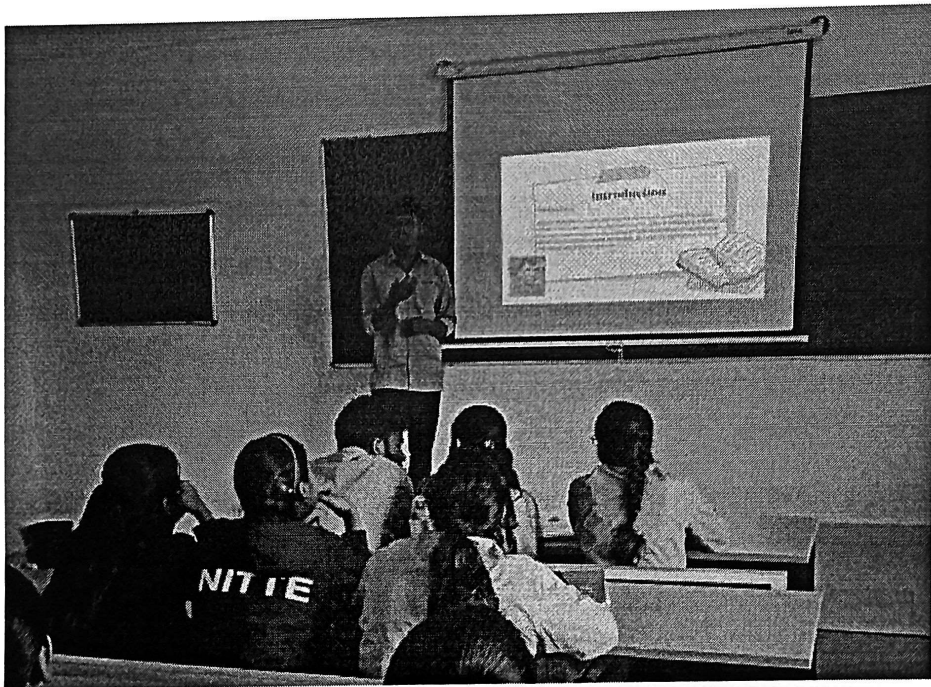

Learning Outcomes:

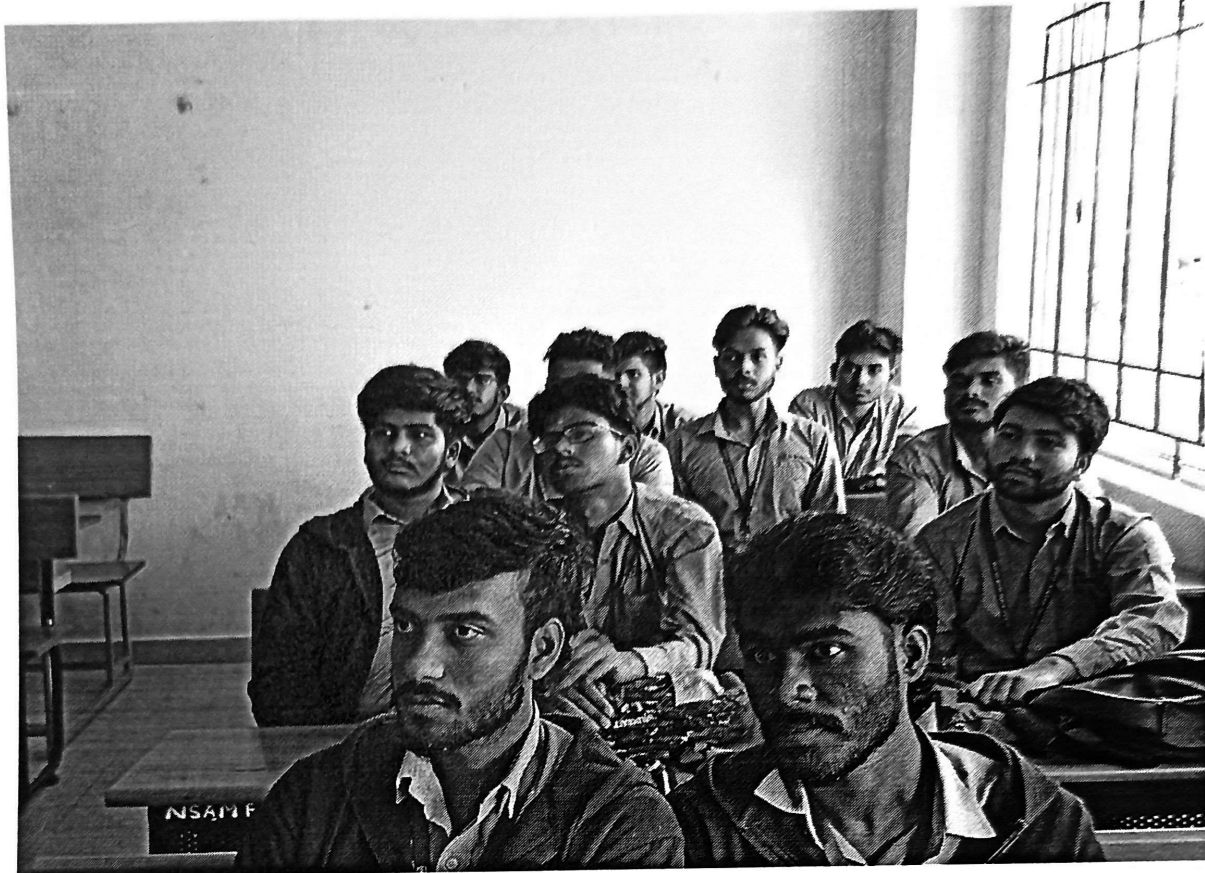

- Students enhanced their understanding of grammatical concepts and their application in writing and speaking.
- They developed analytical skills by interpreting themes and messages in short stories.

- The activity encouraged critical thinking, enabling students to draw connections between textual elements and real-life situations.
- Students demonstrated improved confidence in public speaking and the ability to engage an audience effectively.

Conclusion:

The presentations by the II Semester BBA general students were a resounding success. They showcased the students' hard work, preparation, and growing competence in both academic analysis and public presentation skills. The activity fulfilled its objectives by fostering confidence, encouraging critical thinking, and developing effective communication skills among students.

Objective of the Group Presentation:

Student presentations are a multifaceted tool that contributes to the holistic development of students, equipping them with skills and experiences that extend beyond the classroom. Students learn to manage their time effectively as they plan and deliver presentations within a specified time frame, helping them develop a crucial life skill.

Report:

Presentations simulate real-world scenarios where effective communication is essential. This prepares students for situations where they may need to present ideas, findings, or proposals in their future careers. Students presented in four groups from each class on the topic "Salient Features of the Indian Constitution," "Role and Powers of the President of India," "Supreme Court of India and "Election Reforms in India." Each group consisted of eight to ten members and the entire member had a specific role in presenting different aspects of the topics.

The first group effectively covered the Salient features of the Indian Constitution, providing a comprehensive overview of its preamble, fundamental rights, directive principles, and the structure of government.

The second group demonstrated a thorough understanding of the role and powers of the President of India. They covered the President's executive, legislative, and ceremonial functions, providing examples and historical context.

The group delivered a comprehensive overview of the structure and functions of the Supreme Court of India. They covered the composition of the court, the appointment of judges, and the hierarchy of the judicial system.

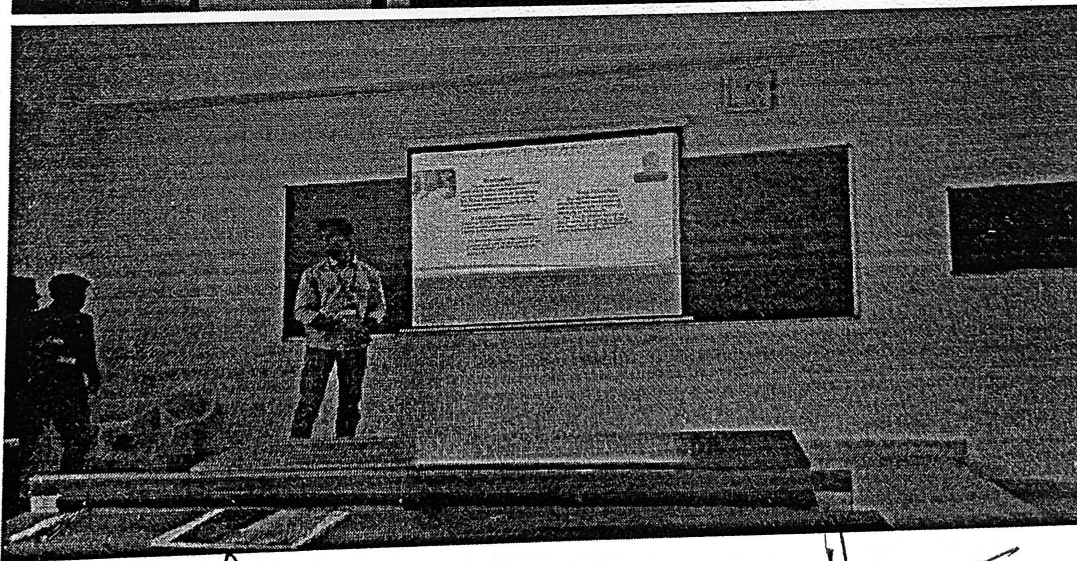

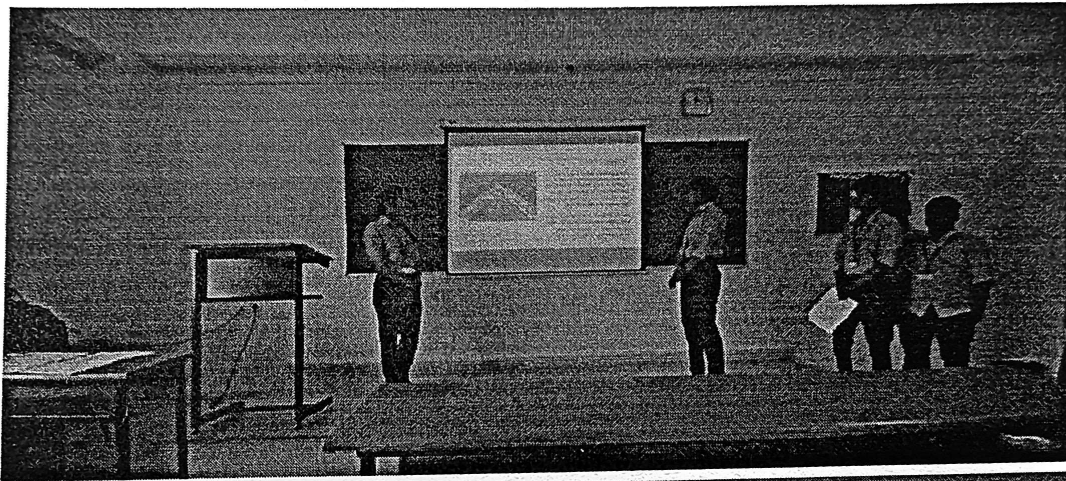

The fourth group effectively addressed the need for election reforms in India, highlighting key challenges and proposing potential solutions. They discussed topics such as electoral financing, political transparency, and the role of technology in the electoral process.

The session concluded with a Q&A and open discussion, allowing students to seek clarification, express opinions, and engage in cross-topic discussion.

Each group member contributed effectively, showcasing a commendable understanding of the topics. The presentation was a valuable learning experience for the presenters and peers.

Learning Outcome:

In group presentations, students learn to collaborate with peers, delegate responsibilities, and work together to deliver a cohesive and well-rounded presentation.

Student-Led Presentation

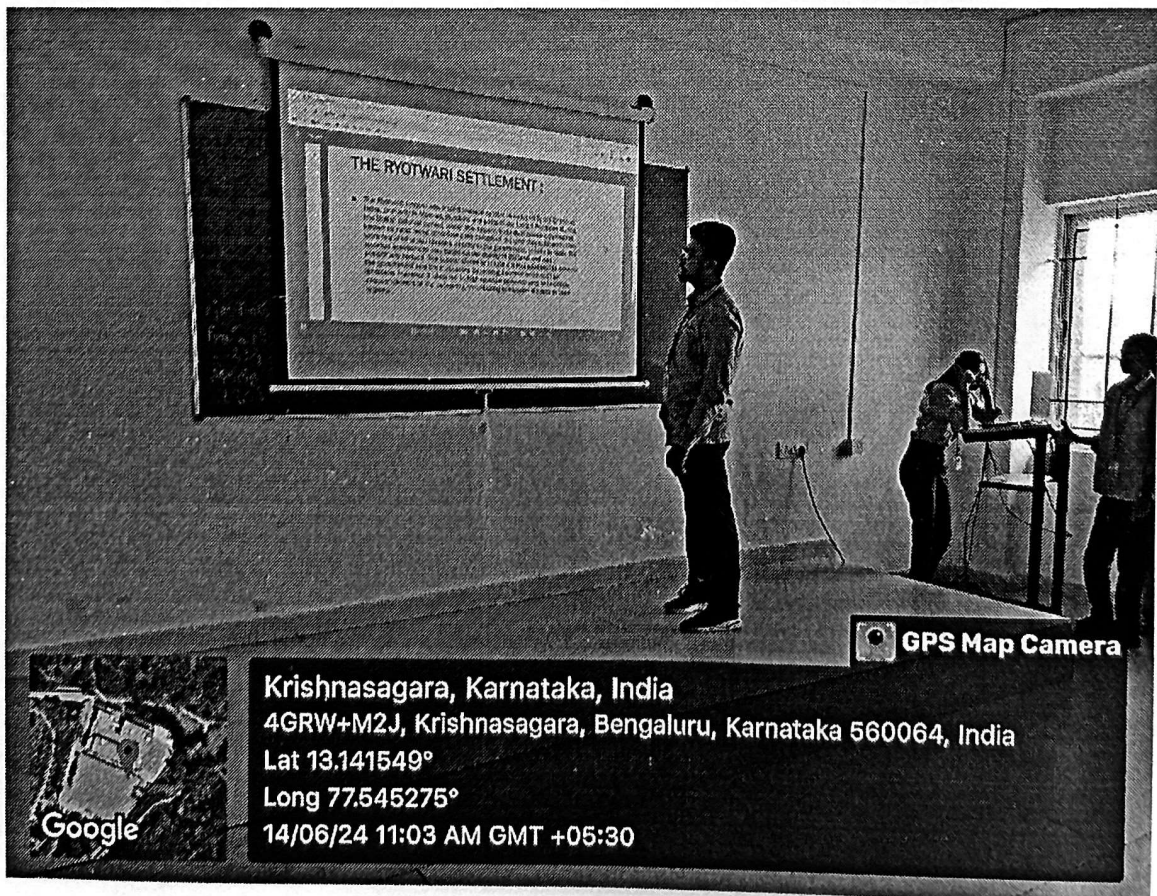

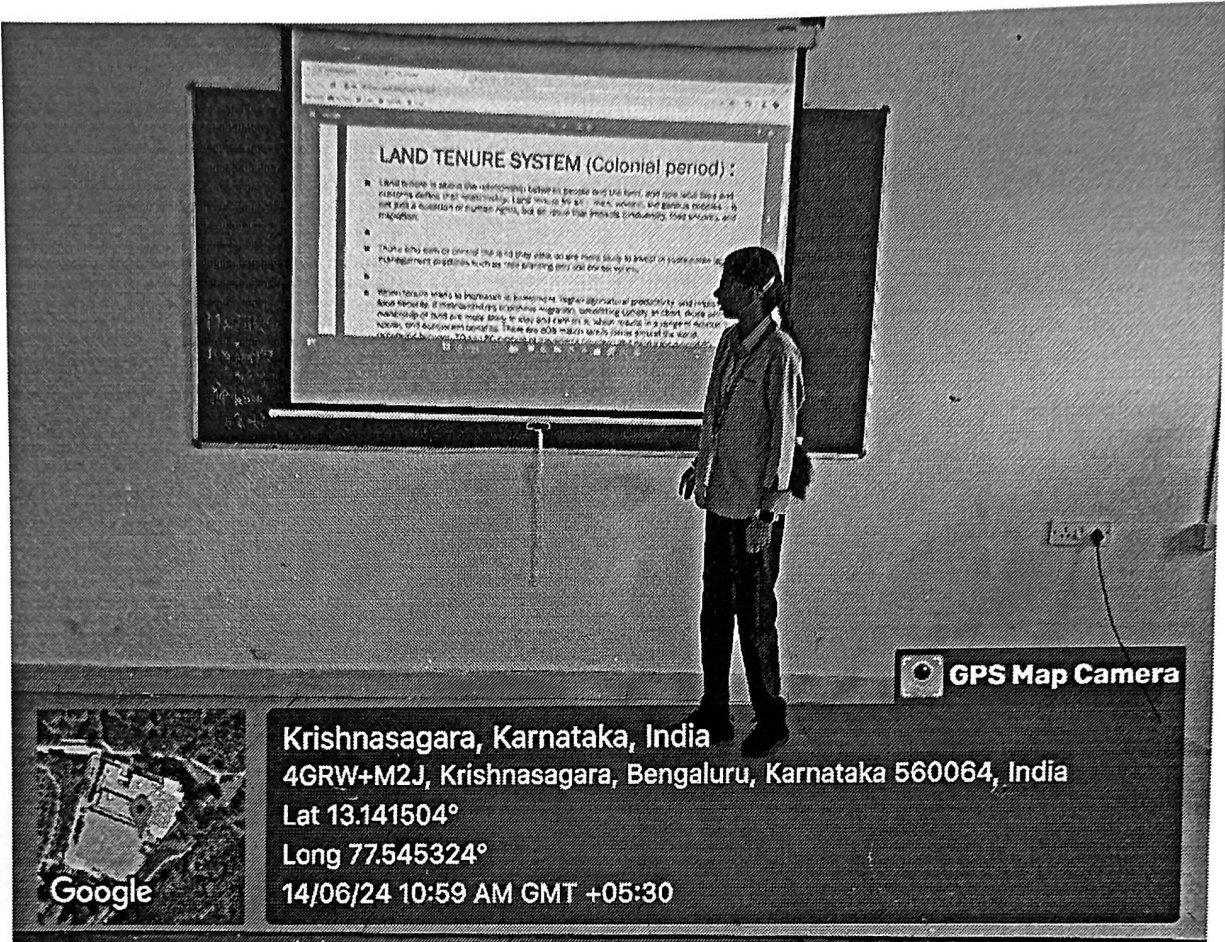

Objectives:

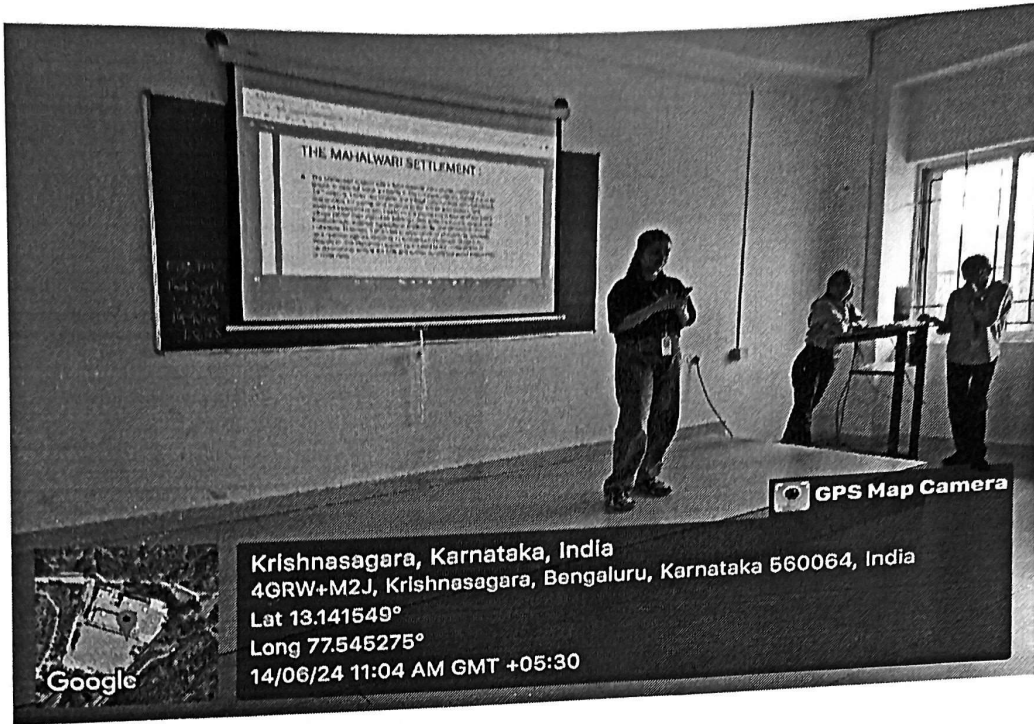

- To build students' confidence in public speaking and presentation skills.
- To develop their ability to articulate findings
- To justify conclusions
- To respond to questions from an audience.

The II Sem BA students from Dr. NSAM First Grade College undertook a detailed exploration of the diverse land tenure systems that characterized rural India during the colonial era. Their presentation, delivered on 14.06.2024, offered a comprehensive analysis of the socio-economic and political dynamics shaped by these systems. The study focused on examining the historical evolution and socio-economic impact of different land tenure systems introduced and practiced across India during the colonial era. Students analyzed secondary sources to understand the dynamics of land ownership, agricultural practices, and socio-political implications during this period. The presentation by II Semester BA students at Dr. NSAM First Grade College provided a comprehensive overview of land tenure systems during the colonial period. It underscored the complexities and far-reaching impacts of these systems on rural life, economic structures, and societal norms in India.

Learning Outcomes:

- Through researching and presenting on colonial-era land tenure systems, students deepen their understanding of historical forces that shaped rural India.
- The students learned to evaluate historical evidence and articulate connections between historical events and societal structures.

FIRST GRADE COLLEGE

MEANING

- Working capital refers to the cash a business requires for day-to-day operations. It is the difference between a company's current assets and its current liabilities, indicating its short-term financial health and liquidity.
- Working Capital = Current Assets - Current Liabilities

The components of working capital

Trade payables

Inventory

Cash and bank balance

Trade receivables

CLASSIFICATION OF WORKING CAPITAL

On basis of time:

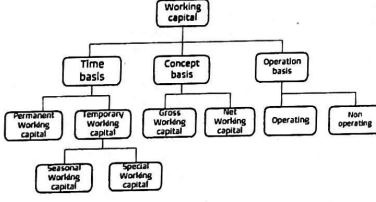

- Permanent working capital
- Temporary working capital:
 - Seasonal working capital
 - Special working capital

On basis of concept:

- Gross working capital
- Net working capital

On basis of operation:

- Operating working capital
- Non-operating working capital

ADVANTAGES OF WORKING CAPITAL

- Smooth Operations: Enables daily expenses and operational needs.
- Liquidity: Improves cash flow and financial stability.
- Flexibility: Adapts to changes and opportunities in the business environment.
- Supplier Relations: Builds trust with suppliers, often leading to favorable terms.
- Easy loan permission: Builds credit score which helps for getting loans.

DISADVANTAGES OF WORKING CAPITAL

- Reduced Profitability: Excessive capital ties up funds for profitable investments.
- Market Changes: Rapid market shifts can impact working capital effectiveness.
- Inefficiency: Poor management can lead to operational inefficiencies.
- Negative Cash Flow: Long cash conversion cycles may strain liquidity.

CONCLUSION

In summary, while working capital is essential for the day-to-day functioning of a business, there are trade-offs and potential drawbacks associated with both excess and insufficient levels of working capital. Striking the right balance is crucial for financial health and sustainability.
